Finances of the church were when Rev. Hamborsky left. He replied that they were very bad. He stated that the church was taking in quite a lot of money, but the bills that came in were never paid and the church is yet in debt. Also that this caused a decrease in the congregation from 780 to about 300 people.

Rev. Kosa went on to say that they were never able to trace the thousands of dollars that had gone, but that the Consistory was responsible and that Rev. Hamborsky was head of the Consistory, and therefore, he was doubly responsible for the church funds.

Respectfully submitted:
